ward earned a M.Ed. at the University of Mississippi. While he was librarian and registrar at Madison College, he earned a master's degree in library science at Peabody College. While they were here on furlough, Edward attended Potomac University and earned another M.A. in religion. The Adventist College of West Africa in Nigeria is small. At present they are offering courses on the third year college level.

Beirut, Lebanon

Harold and Marjorie Connell Johnson, '53, are connected with the Middle East College in Beirut. At the college the oldest son of Kenneth Harding, '53, is in attendance and Harold wrote of a visit from Kenneth. Pastor Harding is president of the Iran Mission. The Johnson family added an SMC alumni junior to our list of new arrivals.

Nyasaland

Phaize Salhany, '50, and his wife, Dorothy Graves, Salhany, '48, received an appointment to Egypt; but the visas for Egypt were revoked. The Salhany's are in Nyasaland. Phaize wrote: "We are happy in the Lord's work, enthusiastic but prayerful, and facing the challenge with activities that are adventurous and exciting. There are still unentered areas that have not heard the three angels' messages and herein lies our responsibility." Dorothy Jean is teaching the boys. Wayne, 10, and Allan, 8, through the Home Study Institute.

Singapore

Pastor H. E. McClure: "One of the thrills of my lifetime has been to see firsthand some of the tremendous things that are taking place in Korea today where over 500 new Sabbath school members have been enrolled every week on the average during the first half of 1961. A new church has been built in that union (composed only of South Korea) every four and one-half days during 1961." Pastor McClure has produced twenty-eight doctrinal filmstrips in twelve languages to provide workers and laymen with visual aid equipment. "We meet many of the alumni of SMC in various parts of the Far Eastern Division as they are filling places of trust and responsibility."

The Seventieth Anniversary Homecoming October 12-14

By HARRY HULSEY, president
SMC Alumni Association

VISITING Southern Missionary College after an absence of two or three years an alumnus said, "When I saw the large green and white overhead sign spanning the road at the campus approach (near where the Yellow House once stood,) I thought I was coming into a metropolis!" Similar luminous signs direct visitors to the industries, the dormitories, the college store, and to various other places of importance on the campus.

The residents of Collegedale are witnessing unprecedented changes, but are often quite unmindful of the process. For instance, it has been common local knowledge for many months that such landmarks as the old barn and other farm buildings must be removed to provide room in the present campus scheme for the proposed men's dormitory and the Collegedale church. Therefore, it created no great stir when demolition crews began their work.

I was driving to work one morning when it occurred to me that the barn—that building with "College Farms" boldly lettered across the facade, that building in which graduates of the early years proudly marched in a graduation procession, that building where I had earned many tuition-dollars on milking stools,—that building was being leveled to the ground. I stopped my car, waded through the dew-drenched grass, and snapped several pictures of the skeleton frame silhouetted against the morning sky and the green western slope of Peach Orchard Hill.

But the real spirit of Southern Missionary College is much more than sentimental attachments to outmoded buildings. This is a dynamic era of time which mercilessly defies the epochal romance of yesteryear.

A friend of mine once caught a fair-sized alligator with his bare hands in a Florida swamp where the water was near waist deep. At first he thought of the money for which the hide could be sold, but before the struggle ended, he thought of many things. He couldn't turn loose for fear of being torn apart by the enraged alligator, and he didn't feel he could continue holding on for fear of being drowned. He did persevere, however, and collected the coveted market price.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ledford celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary June 3, 1962. Mr. Ledford was our farm manager 1918-1933.

The dilemma facing our college is much this way. Our young people are applying for entrance in ever increasing numbers. Our physical plant, most of which dates back four or five decades, is inadequate for the "soaring sixties." We dare not remain static but the limitations of forward development can only be determined through day by day contact with the Master.

Fortunately, the College Board of Trustees is composed of far-sighted, God-fearing men who are taking progressive action to provide an opportunity for every serious-minded young man or young woman in the Southland whose interest and ability shows him qualified for Christian educational pursuits.

As a result of this planning for tangible assets, you will see numerous evidences of change when you arrive on the SMC campus in October. We are also anxious that you will be able to detect an aura of human warmth and spiritual dedication fully commensurate with the growth in every other phase of our campus life. It is our daily prayer that the stress and pressures of contemporary living shall serve only to draw us into a closer relationship with the Comforter.

The entire theme of the Seventieth Anniversary Homecoming will be built around the debut of the publication "A School of His Planning," an authentic, captivating account of the history of Southern Missionary College as compiled by Mrs. Elva Gardner, prominent author and former registrar of Southern Missionary College. This is the seventieth year of our Alma Mater and a most decisive one.

Contact your former classmates, plan class reunions for October, talk enthusiasm, arrange your business, and best of all let's meet at Collegedale on October 12 to make the 1962 Alumni Homecoming the most memorable ever!

Ya'll Come October 13!

The program for the 70th Anniversary Homecoming, October 12-14, will be conducted by the alumni. This will include the Friday evening service, the Sabbath School in the Tabernacle, the divine service, and a special program Sabbath afternoon.

Preceding the evening program in the tabernacle, there will be a short sundown worship in the dining room followed by a light supper and the business meeting.

On this 70th anniversary, we are looking forward to the Saturday night program in the tabernacle. The seventy years of growth will be shown in pantomime.

On Saturday night the book, "SMC, A School of His Planning," will make its debut. (Be sure your $5 has been sent to the college president's secretary for a reserved first edition copy.)

On this special occasion, you will want to arrange a class meeting. If you need help in locating the members of your class, the alumni office will be pleased to send you the addresses upon request.

We will be looking for YOU October 13. Y'all come!

Mr. C. A. Lang, who joined the staff of SMC in 1949, died July 19, 1962. He was loved by alumni, students, and staff members for his kind, unassuming ways. We all mourn his loss.

Lodging Arrangements For Homecoming . . .

Many of you will no doubt choose to reside with friends or relatives in the Collegedale area. Feel free to make your own arrangements with them for the two nights. If, however, you definitely wish the officers of your association to reserve a place for you, please write to Don West, Box 13, Collegedale, Tennessee, and give explicit descriptions of the size of family with the ages and sex of the children. Please point out whether you prefer the privacy of a motel room or prefer to rent a room from one of the Collegedale families. Motel rates are approximately $6.00 per night per couple or $8.00 per night for four people. The folk here in the village charge $1.50 per night per person. Please do not reserve a location and then in the last minute change and go to the home of a friend. You can imagine how it complicates matters when reservations have been previously arranged. Please write to us early for we expect the largest turnout in homecoming history at SMC.

Excellence At Southern Missionary College

By DR. W. M. SCHNEIDER
SMC's Academic Dean

The educational philosophy of Southern Missionary College is epitomized in the words Intellect, Character, and Health. The harmonious development of these three is the educational goal of your College.

SMC recognizes that intellectual competence is not alien to nor incompatible with a sincere Christian faith. Reference is often made to SMC as "the school of standards." Standards imply social relations, but your College interprets the slogan to also include the emphasis that is given to the development of intellect. The mental powers must be awakened if the Christian is to perceive the true nature of man and his relationship to God the Creator and to his fellow men.

A Christian liberal education at SMC makes central its concern for character and intelligence, neither of which it can create. It attempts to provide the atmosphere and conditions under which both can be discovered and nurtured to maturity.

The intellectual encounter between competent Christian teachers and student-disciples, whose principles and interests are in harmony with the ideals and traditions of SMC, is the basic and focal element to be achieved.

The Bible is accepted as the perfect standard of truth, and education at SMC is, therefore, deeply concerned with the development of character as a code of moral and spiritual values in terms of which things or events may be judged as good or bad—right or wrong.

The College seeks to: Engender a considered sense of judgment values involving commitments to a priori moral positions based on Christian philosophy, religion and experience.

Liberate the individual human mind as essential to the discovery and acquisition of truth.

Reveal that education is both discipline and delight, and that meaningful, lasting benefits flow from men and women who have tasted the pleasure of learning.

Provide knowledge of classified facts pertaining to man's physical and social universe and his relationships.

Develop basic abilities and skills that are widely transferable and needed in nearly all of man's pursuits.

Dean W. M. Schneider

To accomplish its objectives, your College has been moving forward on all fronts. We would be pleased to have you meet the dedicated and committed faculty assembled on the campus of SMC. Ten years ago only two teachers held the doctorate degree, whereas, presently, there are 16 with several others completing the final requirements for the degree. This is no small achievement. SMC has the distinction of attracting competent Christian scholars who have chosen continued service on this campus in preference to service in other educational institutions which have extended invitations for their talents.

The faculty sets the quality of the academic program. The average teaching experience of about 18 years, the 30 some major universities attended in securing advanced degrees, and the varied interests and backgrounds of SMC instructors, ensure teaching excellence and a rich cultural environment. A commitment to learning enables SMC teachers to keep abreast of new knowledge in their respective fields, and through research some instructors discover the pleasure of further developing the regions of knowledge yet unknown.

It is significant to note that in recent years SMC freshmen students scored above the national average on the A.C.E. Psychological Test. Even more noteworthy is the observation that approximately 40 per cent of SMC graduates are sufficiently motivated to take graduate or professional training. In anticipation of advanced training, a number of graduates have qualified for scholarships and fellowships, including awards from the National Science Foundation, National Defense Graduate Fellowship program, and the Woodrow Wilson Foundation.

SMC alumni will be interested to know that the College has been able to attract substantial research funds from the National Science Foundation for use by the Department of Physics. The Chemistry Department has also received research funds.

Of special interest to the alumni is the re-affirmation of accreditation received at the Southern Association meeting held in Dallas, Texas, November 26-28, 1962. This represented the grand finale to the work which had preceded in the form of a Self-Study involving most every member of the faculty. The final Self-Study Report, consisting of more than 200 pages, was given to the Southern Association Evaluation Committee shortly before its visit to the College March 18-21, 1962. Following the Committee's three-day visit to the campus a report was issued to the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. As a result of this report, SMC was re-accredited. The many commendations received through the Evaluation Committee's report and from the Southern Association Committee reviewing the report were most cheering to the College administration and faculty who earnestly seek to make your College an outstanding Seventh-day Adventist institution of learning. We intend to strengthen and improve wherever necessary without sacrificing the great principles and objectives of the Church.
